Q & A:

Question: Do credit hours toward my minor count for progress toward degree requirements?

Answer: No. Minor hours do not count toward achieving your progress toward degree hours or your percentage of degree. Only hours that count for your major will count for these requirements. A reminder of what the requirements are is below.

Progress-Toward-Degree Requirements

To be eligible to represent an institution in intercollegiate athletics competition, a student-athlete must maintain progress toward a baccalaureate or equivalent degree at that institution.

1. You need to pass 24 countable credits (credits that count toward your chosen degree) before the start of your 2nd year in college.
2. You need to pass 18 countable credits with Fall and Winter semesters combined. (Spring and summer hours will not count for this requirement.)
3. You need to pass 6 countable credits each semester.

You will also need to designate a degree before your third year of enrollment (5th semester).

Percentage of Degree Requirements

Percentage of degree is completed by adding all countable hours that you have received and dividing them by the total number of hours that you degree requires.

If you are entering your third year of enrollment, you need to have at least 40 percent of your degree completed.

If you are entering your fourth year of enrollment, you need to have at least 60 percent of your degree completed.

If you are entering your fifth year of enrollment, you need to have at least 80 percent of your degree completed.
